Military Madness

Beetle Bailey was taking a girl out on a dinner date at a fancy restaurant, but when he looked at the high prices on the menu, he almost choked. Then, turning to his date, he said, "Well, now, what will you have, my plump little doll"?

* * *

G.I. (at football game): "See that man playing end? I think he'll be our best man next year."

Girl friend: "Oh, this is so sudden!"

An astronaut, visiting the nation's capital for the first time, got his first view of the Washington Monument. He remarked, "They'll never get it off the ground."

A G.I. was determined to give his mother a birthday present that would outshine all the gifts he had given her in years past. In an exotic bird shop, he found a mynah bird, which had a vocabulary of 4,000 words drawn from several languages and could sing three operatic arias. He immediately bought the bird and sent it to his mother.

The day after her birthday, he telephoned. "What did you think of the bird, Mother"? he asked eagerly.

"Delicious!" she replied.

G.I.: "Does the water always come through the tent like this"?

Second G.I.: "Nope. Only when it rains!"

Sarge was attending the State Fair and made a bee-line for the side show. He waited with patience while the sword swallower began to demonstrate his skill. The swallower picked up a handful of nails and gulped them down. "Oh, hold on, now," protested the Sarge. "Those aren't swords!"

"You caught me at a bad time," said the sword swallower. "I'm on a diet."

Bailey: "Do you have another razor"?

G.I. Barber: "Yeah, why"?

Bailey: "I'd like to defend myself."

* * *

Waiter: "And how did you find your steak, Sergeant"?

Sarge: "Oh, I just looked under a little piece of fried potato and there it was!"

* * *

A young soldier was sightseeing at the Grand Canyon. As he looked over the edge, he said to a passing guide, "This is a very dangerous cliff. Why don't you put up a danger sign"?

"Well, soldier, we did have a sign once, but nobody fell over, so we took it down," replied the guide.

* * *

Clerk: "This is a lovely Valentine's card with such stirring sentiments—'To the only boy I ever loved'!"

WAC: "That's fine! Give me a dozen, please!"

* * *

Beetle Bailey finally decided to take it up with the Sarge and asked him point blank:

"Sarge, when am I going to get a promotion"?

"You'll get a promotion," replied the sergeant, "when your work proves satisfactory."

"H'm," grumbled Bailey as he left the room, "I knew there was a catch to it."

* * *

G.I.: (after seeing a movie) "I can say one thing. No woman ever made me look stupid!"

Second G.I.: "Who did, then"?

The company romeo was telling a group of soldiers about the swinging chick he was dating. They listened quietly as he raved about his latest conquest.

"And you know, something," he went on, "not only is this girl beautiful, but she's got brains enough for two!"

"Then," came a voice from the back of the room, "you ought to marry her right away!"

Sarge walked into the barracks and groaned, "The Doc tells me I've got to watch my waistline!"

Bailey: "Don't feel bad, Sarge, think how lucky you are to have it right out front where you can!"

* * *

Sarge was turning in the short wave radio when he got a sudden twinge of pain in his back. "I believe I'm getting lumbago," he remarked.

"What's the use?" asked Beetle Bailey. "You won't understand a word they say anyway."

* * *

It was winter and Private Jones was home on leave. The telephone rang and his wife answered it promptly. "Is Private Jones home"? a voice inquired.

"I'm sorry, but he went over to the river an hour ago."

"What is he doing over there"?

"Oh, that," replied Mrs. Jones. "Well, if the ice is as thick as he thinks it is, he went skating. If it's as thin as I think it is, he went swimming."

Salute to a Medal of Honor winner

The President of the United States of America has awarded in the name of The Congress the Medal of Honor to

Sgt. Larry S. Pierce, U.S. Army

for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty:

Sergeant Larry S. Pierce distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his own life above and beyond the call of duty while leading a Squad against hostile forces near Ben Cat, Republic of Vietnam, on September 20, 1965. Sergeant Pierce was serving as squad leader in a reconnaissance platoon when his patrol was ambushed by hostile forces. Through his inspiring leadership and personal courage, the squad succeeded in eliminating an enemy machine gun and routing the opposing force. While pursuing the fleeing enemy, the squad came upon a dirt road and, as the main body of his men entered the road, Sergeant Pierce discovered an anti-personnel mine emplaced in the road bed. Realizing that the mine could destroy the majority of his squad, Sergeant Pierce saved the lives of his men at the sacrifice of his own by throwing himself directly onto the mine as it exploded. Through his indomitable courage, complete disregard for his own safety, and profound concern for his fellow soldiers, he averted loss of life and injury to the members of his squad. Sergeant Pierce's conspicuous gallantry, extraordinary heroism, and intrepidity at the cost of his own life, above and beyond the call of duty, are in the highest traditions of the United States Army and reflect great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of his country.
